

New Website

Description

Over the past year, we have been working on building our college's new website. It is still a work in progress, but are pleased with the progress that has been accomplished thus far. The new website is secure and has enhanced security features. The site also provides a very secure way people can give to the college. (That aspect is handled by tithe.ly). Since you are here at our new site, take a look around, kick some tires, and let us know what you think. Suggestions to improve the site will be appreciated.
